Mooting Competition – BVL

BVL are a group of law students who worked together to design an outreach project called Big Voice London (BVL). Their aim is to help students from non-fee-paying schools explore the UK legal system.

The mooting competition takes place between January and April 2027.

Students are paired with Mooting Mentors (undergraduate and postgraduate law students) who then assist them in analysing a fictional case, researching the relevant law, preparing their written submissions and then presenting their oral argument.

The competition ends with a final which is judged by a Supreme Court Justice at the UK Supreme Court in London. Travel and accommodation expenses are covered for students travelling from outside of London.

Further information can be found here. To apply, complete a brief application form here. The deadline for applications is 7pm on 2 January 2027.

For more information about other projects that are run by BVL, please see the website

UniTasterDays

Below is some information from UniTasterDays where you can find university open days, taster events and outreach opportunities.

How can you make the most of university? What should you do, and what might you regret missing? In the latest Uni Guide Podcast, released last week, second-year UCL student Tiana shares her experiences, highlights and what she would do differently. Listen here or on all major streaming platforms.

Not sure what to study? Two new subject videos explore quantity surveying and hospitality courses, helping students discover subjects they might not have considered. Explore the subject video library.

Looking for more university advice? From hundreds of university events and opportunities to discounts on travel to open days, there's plenty to discover on the support for students page.
